

How do you drive a global agenda in the infrastructure sector?

London Business School invites you to join an exclusive talk with the Chairman of the global infrastructure conglomerate that manages Heathrow and built the Guggenheim Museum Bilbao.

Moving Forward

Driving a Global Infrastructure Business

Thursday 25 May 2017

Join us for a business-focused talk with Rafael del Pino, an infrastructure sector veteran and Chairman of Ferrovial.

During his career at Ferrovial, he transformed the company from a mostly domestic construction business to one of the world's leading infrastructure operators and municipal services providers. The $11 billion conglomerate manages major transport infrastructures around the world including London's Heathrow Airport, the 407ETR toll highway in Toronto (Canada) and LBJ and NTE highways in Texas (US).

Rafael will share his experience in driving the evolution and internationalisation of an infrastructure management business, and discuss the challenges ahead.

Location: London Business School

Timings: 08.30 Registration | 09.00 Start | 10.00 Close

RSVP: Spaces are limited, please reserve your place now

Speaker

Rafael del Pino has more than 30 years of international management experience. Chairman of Ferrovial since 2000 and CEO since 1992, he was also Chairman of Cintra from 1998 to 2009. In addition, he has been Director of Zurich Insurance Group, Banesto and Uralita.

Rafael graduated in Civil Engineering from the Universidad Politécnica de Madrid and obtained an MBA from MIT Sloan School of Management. He maintains contact with the academic world through his memberships of the MIT Corporation, IESE's International Advisory Board, the MIT Energy Initiative's External Advisory Board and the MIT Sloan European Advisory Board, and the Harvard Business School European Advisory Board. Rafael is also a member of the Royal Academy of Engineering of Spain.

Find out more.